

TR Ireland Team Takes Action for World Environment Day 2025

By TR Fastenings

Demonstrating that small actions can make a big impact, the TR team in Ireland marked World Environment Day 2025 with a hands-on initiative that brought environmental values to life.

During their lunch break, team members took part in a local litter pick, donning high-vis gear and gloves to help clean up their surrounding community. The initiative reflects TR's growing commitment to sustainability and social responsibility across its global operations.

The activity was more than just a clean-up — it was part of a broader environmental ethos TR continues to promote within the business. Staff across the organisation are actively encouraged to reduce waste by including swapping out single-use plastic bottles and coffee cups for reusable alternatives.

“We’re incredibly proud of our Ireland team for taking the initiative and showing leadership when it comes to sustainability,” said Dara Horgan, Entity Director, Ireland. “It’s everyday efforts like these that build long-term impact — both for the planet and for our workplace culture.”

World Environment Day is observed annually on June 5th and led by the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP), is the largest global platform for environmental outreach. TR's participation underscores the company's ongoing focus on environmental improvement and community engagement.
